RIOTING IN INDIANA.

Striking Miners Resorting to the Use of Dynamite.

ATTEMPT TO WRECK A TRAIN.

The Terrible Explosive Was Placed on the Track in Front of the Train Bearing the Several Companies of the Indiana Militia—Miners Shot in Pennsylvania—Other Mining News.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 5.—Four pounds of dynamite was placed on the track of the Evansville and Terre Haute railroad yesterday afternoon by striking miners. The terrible explosive was placed on the track in front of the train bearing the several companies of the Indiana militia, in command of General W. J. McKee. This was at a point a few miles south of Farmersburg, between this station and Shelburn, the first of the mining towns of the road.

The militia has been in this vicinity since Sunday morning and has materially aided the company in moving the coal, which has been tied up by the strikers. The power of might was too much for the strikers, and the uncouth, vicious chaps concluded themselves to indulge in some night.

This was in the shape of dynamite and the forerunner of what is to come, unless the men are quickly quelled. Had the dynamite been exploded, one of the greatest casualties the state has ever had might have occurred. It was the sheerest good fortune as it was. Five coaches and a baggagecar, the officers' quarters and storeroom, were filled with troops, numbering 300 in all.

All day the militia had been camped at Sullivan, when orders were given to escort a trainload of coal past the several mining camps. The train bearing the militiamen moved out from Sullivan at 3 o'clock, and proceeded directly to Shelburn. It preceded the coal train, and pulled on the side track at Shelburn to allow the other train to pass along. The militiamen left the train, and were marched under orders past the station to a road, where a crowd of 200 men and women were standing in a menacing attitude.

An occasional shot against the soldiers was all that could be heard, but the appearance of the faces of the strikers was determined and looked as though something was in store for the troops. The coal train went down the track at a fair rate of speed, and no attempts were made to draw the pins. At the trestle-work just north of the road, running along the station, the speed was slackened materially for fear that the timbers might have been weakened. The soldiers expected some developments, so quiet were the strikers, but none anticipated such a dastardly attempt as was made.

The coal train safely past the station, the troops embarked again and followed a short distance in the rear. Hardly a mile had been traversed when the report of a shot from an anvil was heard in the distance. Fear was expressed that harm had been put in the way of the coal train, and it had possibly been ditched, but a second shot gave an inkling of the real cause. It was an alarm to fellow miners in the distance that a train carrying coal was approaching.

The militia train moved rapidly forward, but came to a standstill directly in the rear of the coal train. An investigation showed the reason for the alarm. Across the rails for a distance of 50 feet, heavy timbers were stretched in all possible ways.

In a bush in the heavy grass and thickly studded timber were a body of 200 miners. It was their purpose to capture the coal train. The disembarkment of the troops was immediately begun and General McKeo ordered the troops to endeavor to surround the miners, but the maneuver failed, as the miners scattered in all directions. The wreckage on the track was removed and the coal train was sent on.

Four dynamite bombs were found near Shelburn and forced off the track by the trains without exploding.

A coal train was captured by the miners and run to Alum Cave, where the strikers have a stronghold.

FOUR STRIKERS KILLED.

Bridges Burned and Bloodshed Follows at Farmersburg, Ind.

SULLIVAN, Ind., June 5.—Parties who have just come in from Farmersburg report that the militia fired on the strikers and killed four men.

News has just reached here that the strikers are burning the bridges behind the coal train.

Herbert and Sam Woolsey, coal operators, have just come in from Shelburn to escape the mob of miners that was after them with a rope.

Colonel Ross has just arrived from the south with five companies. They are waiting here for orders and will probably join General McKeo's command. Very serious trouble is expected.

Sheriff Mills has just arrived with four prisoners.

MINERS SHOT DOWN.

West Virginia Militia Called on to Suppress an Outbreak.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 5.—A telegram from Montgomery states that as the miners at Powellton were leaving the mines yesterday afternoon several shots were fired at them from the surrounding timber, resulting in four men being killed. None of the men who did the shooting were discovered. The proprietor of the Powellton mines telegraphed the fact of the shooting to the governor, stating that he had asked the sheriff for protection and asked if nothing could be done to protect his men.

The governor replied that he had taken the proper course in calling on the sheriff, but that under the statute military aid could only be extended when asked for by the sheriff. The governor said last night that he is determined to use every means to prevent violence, and that he is determined to maintain the law at whatever cost. He has ordered three companies of military to be ready to march at a moment's notice. Those in readiness are the two Huntington companies and one at Milton.

Even Powell, the manager for the Powellton company, telegraphed to Point Pleasant last night for bloodhounds to be used in running down the men that shot the Powellton miners.

OHIO STRIKERS ARE DESPERATE. They resort to lawless acts to prevent the running of trains.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., June 5.—Violence continues in the coal field on the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling railroad. Near Flushing two boxcars were run out on the main track and down the grade one mile. These were struck by an eastbound freight, but no one was hurt and little damage was done. Nearly 200 railroad ties were piled on the railroad track, and in another place three trucks.

The situation is growing more serious, and trainmen are afraid of their lives. The railroad officials are here, and say no effort will be made to run coal trains. The strikers ignore President McBride's order to desist from violence and propose to stop all coal trains. It looks as if the militia alone can cope with them, as many are armed. Bloodshed is predicted before the trouble is ended.

STRIKE AT CRIPPLE CREEK SETTLED. Governor Waite Acts for the Strikers in a Conference With the Operators.

DENVER, June 5.—The strike at Cripple Creek was settled at a late hour last night. The conference began at 8 o'clock. Governor Waite announced to the operators that he was authorized to act for the miners, and consideration for the various points was immediately begun.

But one point caused serious complication, and that was the time allowed for luncheon. The miners demanded 30 minutes, they to be allowed to pay for the articles of agreement provide that the miners shall work eight hours a day, with 20 minutes for luncheon; that they be paid at the rate of $3 a day, and that the mine owners in employing men shall not discriminate against either union or nonunion men. After the conference the governor issued a proclamation calling on the men to lay down their arms. The state militia is to be called out to go to Cripple Creek and assist the sheriff in restoring order.

GUARDING THE BRIDGES. If an Attempt Is Made to Burn Them Bloodshed Will Follow.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 5.—At Kenova, eight miles east of here, where the Norfolk and Western road crosses the Ohio river, many threats have been made regarding the destruction of one of the spans by miners, who it was reported desired to stop the coal from coming out from the Peaonton mines.

Every bridge along the road is guarded by an immense force, and suspicious looking characters are not allowed to approach. The local military companies, two in number, have assembled and are ready to proceed to either Kenova or Winifreda at a moment's warning, as these are the points where striking miners have been gathering.

A Sheriff Powerless.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., June 5.—Governor Altgeld has received the following telegram from the sheriff of Williamson county at Marion, Ills.: "I am powerless in the hands of 1,000 men and women armed with dynamite and guns. I am compelled to withdraw my forces at Carterville." The governor has replied, asking how many deputies the sheriff had, and what acts of violence, if any, had occurred. Thirty guns, with a supply of ammunition, were forwarded to that place.

It seems that the strikers are in possession of the railroad property and refused to allow coal trains to be moved. The sheriff came on the ground with a force of 40 deputies, but the force was entirely insufficient. There were about 700 strikers largely armed and in full control of the yards. The people are greatly alarmed and feel that troops should be sent.

Bridges All Burned.

CLEVELAND, June 5.—Not a train was moved on the Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling road yesterday, owing to bridges being burned by strikers. For three weeks this road has been the only source of fuel supply to local mills and factories. Unless traffic is resumed on the road within two or three days hundreds of establishments must close down. The Lake Shore and Nickle Plate roads have also been supplied from the same source, and many trains on these roads will be abandoned unless coal can be obtained promptly. The Cleveland, Lorain and Wheeling road will attempt a resumption of traffic today.

Coal Supply Almost Exhausted.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 5.—The coal supply here is almost exhausted. The waterworks fires are now being fed with wood. The streetcar supply is well nigh exhausted as a threatened tie-up stares its management in the face. The local steamboats are laid up for want of coal, and many of the manufacturing industries are preparing to burn wood. Some of the breweries have already resorted to wood for fuel. The miners here held a meeting yesterday and decided to fight it out on the McBride platform if it takes all summer.

No Prospect of a Settlement.

PITTSBURG, June 5.—There seems little prospect that a settlement of the strike will be reached as an outcome of the conference of the miners' officials and organizers at Columbus. Secretary Warner, who, with Organizer Harris, left for Columbus last night, said just before he left that there would certainly be no 60-cent rate compromise for the Pittsburg district. The miners will not hear of it. They have struck for 79 cents, and unless they get it they will continue the fight.

Sure to Be a Conflict in Kentucky.

ASHLAND, Ky., June 5.—Ohio strikers estimated from 1,000 to 2,000, are expected down from the Wellston district to blow up the Norfolk and Western railway bridge spanning the Ohio river at Kenova, W. Va. The railroad has about a hundred guards stationed, all armed with Winchesters, while military companies will be called from Huntington and Ironton if needed.

All Quit but Fifteen.

LITCHFIELD, Ills., June 5.—About 100 miners from surrounding towns came here yesterday to force the working miners here to join the strike. Only 15 miners persist in working. The intruders are orderly.

COXEY FOR CONGRESS.

Commonwealth Leader a Candidate on the People's Party Ticket.

MASILLON, O., June 5.—Jacob S. Coxey, the reincarnated reformer, has accepted the nomination for congress in the Eighteenth, or McKinley district of Ohio, in a letter to the People's party committee dated at Washington, "Parlor 67," United States jail.

In his letter he charges England with having precipitated the money panic here with the aid of willing allies in this country. He saw the necessity of immediate action and took it. For this he was arrested by order of the money power. He refers to Judge Miller as "Pontius Pilate," President Cleveland as "Tiberius," and a number of other prominent public men as congressional Judas Iscariots.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

A Toledo Man Kills His Wife and Then Commits Suicide.

TOLEDO, June 5.—Joseph Losenski, a Polish Jew, shot his wife yesterday afternoon and immediately committed suicide with the same revolver. Mrs. Losenski was formerly Mrs. Fleming. Her husband died a year ago, and she had been married to Losenski only three weeks.

No one was in the room at the time and both died instantly, hence it is impossible to tell what was the immediate cause of the tragedy. The neighbors know that Losenski was very jealous of his wife and a sudden quarrel from this cause is supposed to have led to the act.

A Pistol Duel.

PARIS, Tex., June 5.—A fierce pistol duel was fought on the northbound Frisco passenger train, near Grunt, T. T., last night, between Shubie Locke and Will Everidge, as the result of a dispute. Locke was wounded on the right side and Everidge in the right thigh. Deputy Marshal Gardner, in endeavoring to separate them, was shot through the left thigh. Both men are of Indian blood and were of opposing sides in the Locke-Jones war of last year.

Held Without Trial.

WELLSVILLE, O., June 5.—The preliminary trial of Jessie McGregor, for the murder of Mrs. Lizzie Ewing, was commenced at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and finished at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The evidence produced was very strong against McGregor, and a number of the most important witnesses for the state were not produced. The mayor bound McGregor over to court without bail. Alma Walters was placed under $300 bonds.

Two Men Instantly Killed.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 5.—R. E. Crenshaw, a railroad contractor of Springfield, Mo., and Rob McConnell, a laborer, were instantly killed yesterday while at work on the Hot Springs, Little Rock and Texas railroad by a premature blast of dynamite. Their bodies were blown high into the air and mutilated terribly. Crenshaw's family live at Springfield, Mo., and his remains were shipped to that place.

Shot Her Playmate.

PIQUA, O., June 5.—Two little girls, Oprah Shavely and Bessie Johnston, were playing together at the home of the latter, in this city, when the Johnston girl discovered a revolver, and, pointing the firearm at her companion, discharged the contents. The ball entered the girl's head near the ear and glanced upward. It will cause her death.

Shooting the Result of a Quarrel.

CHICAGO, June 5.—Mrs. Giuseppe Fiora was shot and instantly killed yesterday by Louis Veckla. Frank Fiora, her husband, was seriously wounded. The shooting was the result of a quarrel between Veckla and Fiora, because the latter refused to pay rent amounting to $7.

Bookkeeper Gone Wrong.

COLUMBUS, O., June 5.—Michael J. Lovinger, for 13 years the trusted bookkeeper and confidential man of the Engelke & Bigelow Transfer company, has gone wrong. From a reliable source it is learned that he is an embezzler to the extent of $20,000.

Merchant Tailor Asks.

ZANESVILLE, O., June 5.—Moses Meyer, merchant tailor, has assigned, with assets of about $11,000 and liabilities of $18,000, of which $6,551 is due home creditors, secured by chattel mortgages given Saturday night.

Speed's Division of Commonwealths.

CENTRALIA, Ills., June 5.—About 250 commonwealths, under command of Speed, reached here yesterday evening. They were escorted through the city, and are camped two miles north of here. The army is composed of seceders from Kelly.

SENSATIONAL DIVORCE.

A Woman of 70 Files a Bill Against a Youthful Husband.

NEWARK, N. J., June 5.—Something of a sensation has been caused by the announcement that Mrs. Walter Bosch, formerly Mrs. Alfred Lister, would begin proceedings for a divorce from her husband, who is 25 years old. The charge will be based on the alleged intimacy of the husband with the plaintiff's married daughter, Mrs. Emma Sanford. Mrs. Bosch is 70 years old, and after her first husband either fell or jumped overboard from a vessel bound for the West Indies in 1850, she married Mr. Bosch, who had been her husband's secretary. The marriage took place in 1892. Mrs. Lister says she married Bosch because she knew all the details of her husband's business, which were extremely complicated.

She weighs over 200 pounds, while Bosch is small, slender and of light weight. Last week Mrs. Bosch left her home and went to live with a married daughter a couple of blocks away. Bosch has gone to his parents in East Orange. Mrs. Sanford and her husband separated after a short married life.

After the separation she applied to her mother for shelter. She had a small child in her arms. Mrs. Bosch refused to give her assistance. Bosch asserted his authority, would not let the young woman be turned away, and Mrs. Sanford remained in the house. Where she is now no one appears to know. Her child is in her husband's home. Mr. Sanford will also apply for a divorce.

ELECTRIC CARS COLLIDE.

Twelve Persons Injured While Going to Negro Picnic.

ATLANTA, June 5.—Two cars on the Atlanta and Decatur electric line collided yesterday two miles beyond the city limits and 12 persons were seriously injured. Nearly all the injured are negroes, as the out-going car was carrying a party of 35 negroes, who were going to a picnic near Decatur. Both cars were long, heavy and open.

The wreck occurred in a curve, on either side of which is a steep grade. Conductor Loom and Motorman White of the outgoing car jumped. White rolled down the high embankment and was picked up unconscious. Motorman Heath of the incoming car was caught in the wreck and terribly crushed. As soon as it was discovered the collision was inevitable the passengers began to leap from the cars which were running 15 miles an hour. But a great many could not escape and were buried under the wrecks, both cars being telescoped.

Ex-Minister Phelps III.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 5.—Judge William Walter Phelps, ex minister to Germany, is seriously ill at his home at Tea Neck. Mr. Phelps has been in poor health for some time past. Dr. Currie, who is in attendance, refuses to give definite information in regard to Mr. Phelps' illness, but admits that it is very serious. He does not anticipate any change in his patient's condition for some days. Mrs. Phelps returned from Berlin yesterday where she had been visiting her daughter.

Scared Her Divorce.

PHILADELPHIA, June 5.—Annie Iredell Bain scoured a divorce yesterday from Green B. Raum, Jr., son of the ex-commissioner of pensions. Non-support and desertion were the causes named. The husband did not put in a defense. Proceedings were begun a month ago. Three witnesses, Charles D. Rogers and a younger brother and sister, were heard on behalf of the libellant. Mrs. Raum is the daughter of William D. Rogers of this city.

Fight Between Indians and Spaniards.

TOLUCA, Mex., June 5.—Advices have just reached here of a desperate encounter in the little mountain town of San Juan de Tepan, between the Indian inhabitants and the Spanish residents, in which several Spaniards are reported to have been killed. The cause of the conflict was a dispute as to the ownership of certain land in the town. The Indians refusing to give the Spaniards the right of possession of the property.

Stole Over $100,000.

LONDON, June 5.—A dispatch to The Times from Buenos Ayres says: Senor Marenco, manager of the Provincial bank of the city, has committed suicide. Irregularities had previously been discovered in his accounts to the extent of $1,300,000. Senor Marenco occupied a high social position and the announcement of his wrong doing and suicide caused a sensation.

The Taylors Heard From.

LINNEUS, Mo., June 5.—The latest turn in the case of the Taylor brothers, who killed the Meeks family, is a letter from W. P. Taylor to parties in Brown, saying: "If the authorities will call in all the prisoners and dogs the Taylors will surrender and stand trial. They claim they are innocent and can prove it if given a chance." Their terms are not likely to be accepted.

Unsettled conditions, with occasional showers; variable winds.

It is very evident from Colonel Breckinridge's Midway speech that he doesn't intend to allow Colonel Owens to do all the "roasting." The people of the "Ashland" district may enjoy that sort of talk, but it does not speak very well for them.

The recent change in the management of that Republican journal the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette it appears changed its views on the silver craze. It has come out unequivocally for silver. On this subject the Ironton Register has the following to say:

The editorial in the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette on "Silver as Money" might have appeared without notice in a popularistic journal, but, appearing as it does in a paper that claims to advocate Republican doctrines, it should meet with universal disavowal and protest. In every statement of fact and in every tendency of argument it directly antagonizes Republican ideas that have been proclaimed every year since the money question became paramount in American politics.

Hi, there, Brother Marsh, can't you sell out a few more old chestnuts about the plenty of money in the State Treasury? Tell us the "official" statement from Frankfort is a Republican lie, or tell us—well, just tell us any sort of lie you please.—Public Ledger.

The editor of the BULLETIN is not in the lying business. The Ledger man has monopolized things in that line these many years. But speaking of State finances, affairs are not near as bad in Democratic Kentucky as they are in Republican Ohio. The old Commonwealth hasn't found it necessary to issue over half a million dollars worth of bonds to pay running expenses, as was done only a week ago over in the Buckeye State. When Governor Campbell stepped aside for Governor McKinley a few years since, he left a surplus in Ohio's treasury of $1,350,000. That's all gone, and the claim is made that there is a deficit now of $2,500,000.

Keep Human Life in the Sunshine.

Investigator: "A few days ago we were called upon to speak the farewell words at the funeral of an old friend and neighbor. Upon reaching the house we noticed in the place of the usual crape upon the door, some beautiful leaves and glasses artistically arranged, and tied with lavender ribbon. This was sensible, and if it meant nothing to the dead it certainly had a good effect upon the living. Whether death means darkness or daylight, let us do what we can to keep human life in the sunshine. Better put leaves and flowers on the door of the house where the dead lie awaiting burial than to hang black there."

A gentleman who has had years of experience in the undertaking business says he frequently meets persons who shudder at the thought of seeing caskets about their homes. The "Investigator's" suggestions are to the point.

A CARD.

I wish to denounce as wholly untrue that portion of the card of George M. Clinger in yesterday's Ledger which asserts that I am not a Republican.

Every man in this county who has any acquaintance with me knows that statement to be false, and Mr. Clinger knew that he was circulating an untruth when he published it. His reflection upon the arbitration, in our agreement mentioned in his card, is likewise uncalled for, malicious and absolutely false.

Respectfully,

HUNDREDS of CURES,

have caused the old log doctors of the State so much uneasiness that for the past two years they have been doing all in their power to stop his practice.

Come to Me and Be Cured if it is in My Power to do it.

John Whittington, 216 N. Walnut street, Maysville, says: "I have tried seven doctors and none of your treatment did any good. Have not worked for six months. I am now able to work after one month of your treatment, and ask, 'What is he doing?' Is that enough?

H. H. King, Helena, M. D., Flemingsburg, Chas. Ashbury, Maysville, L. L. Wells, Helena, and fifty others can and do speak of the good Dr. Appleman is doing. Consult this eminent Spec-

THE BLUE, THE GRAY

They All Shall Sleep Together After Life's Allotted Measure.

Colonel Worthington's Eloquent Address at Maysville Cemetery Decoration Day.

It is with pleasure that the BULLETIN lays before its readers the eloquent address delivered by Hon. W. J. Worthington, of Greenup, at the Maysville Cemetery, Decoration Day. The Colonel spoke as follows:

Friends and Fellow-citizens: Allow me to congratulate you upon the very favorable and auspicious circumstances under which we meet to-day. "Surely the lines have fallen to us in pleasant places," and we are made to exclaim, "Ours is a goodly heritage." Consider for a moment the manifold blessings the Beneficent Father has showered upon us. Our granaries and "store-houses are replete with abundance, our waving fields of grain give unmistakable promises of a superabundant supply in the near future. The flag of our Nation, the beautiful banner of "the land of the free and the home of the brave" is this day unfurled to the gaze of seventy million of the freest and happiest people on earth. Each eye is ablaze with delight, each heart is moved with gratitude and pride. In the language of the immortal Scott,

"Breathe there a man with soul so dead, Who never to himself hath said, This is my own my native land."

Yes, my friends, this is our country, this is our home. Have you considered, weighed and estimated its blessings and its advantages? If not, let me request you to dedicate a portion of your spare moments to a better understanding and appreciation of the priceless boon bequeathed by our revolutionary fathers and preserved by the blood of the heroes, whose graves we to-day bedew with our tears and garland with flowers. View the countless homes of thrift and contentment; study its institutions, its beneficent and impartial laws affording a like protection for the rich and the poor, the high and the low. The avenues to preferment and place are open alike to all. View the unparalleled strides made by our people in the arts and sciences. Then turn your eyes to the benevolent institutions that everywhere arise like angels of mercy throughout the land providing homes for the homeless, care and sustenance for the helpless and afflicted. If your hearts are not then moved with gratitude and pride, allow me to say (in sorrow) that you are unworthy of the name of an American citizen. God forbid that there be any such that breathe the free air of America.

The little cloud that now obscures for a time the beautiful sunlight of peace and tranquillity that should ever prevail in this blest land of liberty, caused by the interest and discontent of a portion of our fellow-citizens who have failed to avail themselves of the opportunities presented for the past to provide for the future, will soon pass away. It is no fault of the government. It can neither make corn nor wheat to feed the hungry, nor wherewithal to clothe the naked. These are the rewards of labor. Our Heavenly Father withholds not the sunshine nor the rain. Mother earth generously responds to the toil of the husbandman. If there has been a lack of bread there has been a lack of the sweat of the face, which is the price the Almighty has placed upon the staff of life. There is no cause of complaint. But enough, my friends, of this.

When I cast my eyes over this assembly and call to mind the purpose for which we have been called together, my heart is moved by the deepest emotions of gratitude. Gratitude for what? Gratitude for your kind recollection of the heroes who gave their lives for the preservation of this blest land of ours.

It is now thirty-three years past since a portion of our citizens became dissatisfied and declared that they would divide the patrimony bequeathed to us by our patriotic fathers, and upon their portion they would establish a government whose chief corner stone should be human slavery. Nor was it an idle boast. The flag of the Nation was trailed in the dust; its laws defiled; its property seized; war declared. War inaugurated with all its dire and horrible consequences; reason deserted her throne; men were seized with madness; ruin threatened our boasted Republic. I am loath, my friends, to refer to these scenes. They will ever remain a dark and sorrowful page in American history which every true patriot would gladly expunge therefrom. But to those of us who passed through the scenes of '61 and the years of terrible war which followed, memory comes like a mighty rushing river bearing upon its turbid bosom the horrible scenes of that lamented period in our country's annals. Gladly would we welcome the obliterating clouds of oblivion that would seal them from sight and memory forever. But like the ghost of Banquo they will not down at our bidding. Therefore let me forgive and as far as we can forget this unhappy episode in our country's history, and bow in humble submission to the will of him who does all things for the best. The wounds that we have in our madness and frenzy inflicted on our country have been healed, but the scars remain.

My comrades and brothers in arms, you that wore the gray and you that wore the blue, for my sympathy and love goes out alike to both of you, our sufferings and toils were alike. The same searching rays of the southern sun descended alike on both of us, the same chilling blasts of the north numbed our limbs, the same long and weary marches wasted our strength and dissipated our energies, and by reason of our sufferings we are alike prematurely aged. We have alike exposed our bodies to the destructive leaden rain in defense of what we considered to be right. We have alike witnessed the horrors of the battle field, and have seen our comrades and loved ones fall by our side to uphold the cause they believed to be right. Why should we not sympathize with each other? Why should we not love one another? Come, then, my comrades; come, the blue, come, the gray, let us join hands in one eternal, everlasting fraternal clasp, and scatter over the wounds we can not erase the flowers of peace and kindly conceal them from the view of our children that shall ere long take our place. We shall soon take up our abode in that land from whose bosom no traveler returns.

The sea to the mountain returns its liquid treasure, And by man's laws supplies the streams with their allotted measure. Not so with man, One voyage down the stream and then he's gone forever; So goes the gray, so goes the blue, They all shall sleep together.

Their names and deeds alone shall live in story, And nations yet unborn shall sing for them the song of glory. Some for these and some for those. For now all are friends and none are foes; Then freely let fall your flowers on all, And let the whole world know That America in America has no foe.

Shall I speak to you of the heroes who have distinguished themselves in this lamentable fraternal conflict? Their name is legion. It would seem difficult to mention some and omissions; but may we not with pardonable pride refer to Lee and Grant whose names will be classed with a Napoleon and a Wellington? Will not the names of Sheridan and Stonewall Jackson compare with a Ney and a Gustavus Adolphus? Will not the names of Johnson and Thomas rank with the names of Hannibal and Scipio. Although arrayed on different sides, they were all Americans. Their names and fame is our common heritage, and where all are great, it were folly to contend who were greatest.

But there is one whose name I can not omit; nor am I able to name his peer. I mean the great High Priest of human liberty, the immortal Lincoln whose name will grow brighter and brighter as the ceaseless wheels of time roll on; and when the Pyramids of Egypt shall have been reduced to dust, and the vortex of revolutions shall have swallowed up the names of the heroes and great men of past ages, the name of Abraham Lincoln will still be green and fresh in the hearts of freemen; and when centuries have rolled away the descendants of the dusky sons of the South will still be chanting peans to the name of Lincoln. It was at his call that the Nation armed and went forth to do battle for its life. Do you, my friends, recollect the response to that call? I do. Many of you do. God be praised, many of you were among the respondents; but alas for many more who answered that call! "The muffled drum's sad roll has beat her last tattoo." We shall meet them no more at our reunions or memorial days. "Their silent tents are spread on, fame's eternal camping ground," and we, too, are admonished by these gray hairs, dimmed eyes and tottering limbs, that we are rapidly approaching the eternal goal, and instead of scattering flowers upon the graves of our departed comrades, ere long we shall be the recipients of these favors by other hands, who will, I trust, hold in grateful remembrance the sacrifices you have made that they and their children's children may enjoy the blessings of liberty and good government for ages yet to come, for I have faith to believe just so long as the stars and stripes wave over an individual country just so long will Memorial Day be observed. What a beautiful custom! What more acceptable offering could we bring them, the pure beautiful sinless flowers? What are they? Are they not the smiles of a benevolent Creator to cheer and gladden our hearts as we plod the stormy pathway of life. To them we have ascribed a language expression all the emotives of the soul. Language is powerless to describe their beauties. Suffice it to say that he that spoke as never man spoke said of them, "Behold them, they will not, neither do they spin, yet I say unto you that Solomon in all of his glory was not arrayed like unto one of these."

"Almighty God when around thy shrine, The palm tree's heavenly boughs we twine, Earth's fairest gift to man, And love that faith not may, We bless the flowers, expand all, We bless the leaves that never fall, And trembling say, in Elenthus, The tree of life may flower for us."

What a beautiful religion is ours! How hope and faith buoyes up the soul in the hours of affliction and bereavement! Go ask the infidel what boon he brings us; what charm for aching hearts he can reveal! Sweet is the heavenly promise, hope sings us earth has no sorrow that God can not heal.

Believest thou that we shall meet our departed comrades again in that land where sunshine is eternal and the flowers wither not, where the jarring boom of the cannon, the fierce rattle of the musketry, and the clang of the sabers shall be heard no more for ever; where strife shall cease and ambition hide his hideous form; and friendship and love unalloyed be the feast of the land for all time to come.

There the father will find his long lost son, the doting mother her darling boy, and the weeping wife her long lost husband, there the gray and the blue shall meet under the olive branch of peace, and war no more.

"Is it not sweet to think hereafter When the spirit leaves this sphere, That love with deathless wing shall waft her To those we long have mourned for here?"

Hearts from which 'twas almost death to sever, Eyes this world can never restore

There as warm, as bright as ever,

Shall meet us and be lost no more.

Oh! if no other boon were given,

To keep our hearts from wrong and stain,

Who would not try to win a heaven?

Where all we love shall live again."

Many of our comrades, like Dante, sleep afar;

their resting places are unknown; no flowers will be placed on their tombs to-day; no tears will bedew the grass upon their graves. But may they not be with us? The spirit is unshackled and, like the wind, goeth where it listeth. Will there not be rejoicing in spirit land to-day, when our comrades behold a grateful people garlanding their silent resting places with nature's rarest gems?

It has been said that Republics are ungrateful, that the charge hold good against this grand Republic of ours? I think not. Have the defenders of the Unfou' been forgotten? Are not the living provided for? Are not the dead honored and remembered in a manner more gratifying than the deification of the Graecian heroes? Yes, my comrades, the Republic has been grateful,

The people have been generous. Homes, yes, palaces have been reared that might excite the envy of kings. The skill of the architect has been exhausted upon them. The florist has beautified and adorned them with the treasures of the floral kingdom. They are interspersed by their shaded walks and dotted with rippling lakes. They are homes indeed, "Home, sweet home!" How many memories, sad and otherwise cling around that one word. Here the wornout soldier may find rest. This is his home,

Here all the luxuries and comforts of life are provided for him without money and without price, yea, without thought upon his part. Say not then that the Government for which you offered your lives is ungrateful, but say rather who would not bleed for such a Government, who would not die for such a people! Long, long, may the sun of liberty shine upon it. Long, long may we be bound together in the bonds of indissoluble union by the spirit of patriotism.

There was a time when men gloried in the name of Roman citizen. How much more should we glory in the name of American citizen. But higher, higher yet the honor to have been instrumental by your strong arms and brave hearts to maintain intact the union of the States that compose this grand Republic of ours. Not a star has been plucked from the galaxy. They have been exalted there by the blood of patriots and heroes and there let us trust they will remain forever. For where is the man who claims to be an American and the lover of his country who can for a moment contemplate a dissolution of this union and its attendant horrors, without a shudder? "United we stand, divided we fall."

And now my old comrades in arms, both the gray and the blue, for we are all old now, we are all in the same boat, and the graining of its keel upon the shores of eternity will soon sound in our ears, a few words with you and I am done. May you so live and act as to merit the good will and honor that a grateful people stand ready to bestow upon you. Let no act stain the escutcheon of a soldier, let us cloud dim the luster of the honor to which you have attained. Live so that your comrades in arms may be proud to meet you and greet you as a brother indeed. And may He who is mindful even of the fall of the sparrow, lead you and direct you to that haven of rest where you shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on you, nor any heat. For the Lamb which in the midst of the throne shall feed you, and shall lead you unto living fountains of water; and God shall wipe away all tears from your eyes.

A SWINDLE CHECKMATED.
An Old Farmer Narrowly Escapes Losing $10,000.

WABASH, Ind., June 5.—Two confidence operators attempted to swindle Daniel Weldy, a wealthy old farmer, living near Decatur. Weldy is ex-commissioner of Adams county. Three weeks ago a young fellow called upon him, representing himself as the son of Jack Studebaker of Bluffton, a personal friend of Mr. Weldy. He wanted to buy one of Mr. Weldy's farms, but Mr. Weldy was sick and unable to accompany him to look at the property. Two weeks later he returned, exhibiting a large roll of money. While they were en route to view the farm, a second person approached, there was the usual play and Mr. Weldy's friend won first $100, and then $5,000, which was handed over, only to be tendered back.

The return was refused, the stranger indignantly saying: "If you fellows had lost that amount of money to me, you wouldn't have paid me at all." The venerable Mr. Weldy thereupon retorted that he (himself) was worth $50,000, and his friend had a large amount of ready money with him. The colloquy resulted in Mr. Weldy agreeing to drive to Decatur and draw $10,000 as an earnest of what he could do. Upon arrival at Decatur Mr. Weldy accidentally fell in with a nephew, and this nephew put himself in possession of the facts and interfered to prevent the old gentleman from checking out his money. The swindlers saw that the game was uncovered and disappeared.

WAR BREAKS OUT AFRESH.
The Old Quarrel Between Two Railway Companies Revived.

MUNCIE, Ind., June 5.—The Lake Erie and Western Railroad company not only pulled out the Muncie Belt Railroad company's crossing south of the city on the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville division, yesterday, but they hauled the crossing away and it can not be found. Some time ago the court granted the right of way to the Muncie Belt, and appointed three commissioners to assess benefits and damages.

The Lake Erie and Western was awarded $2,000 for eight crossings on their Belt track and one on the Fort Wayne, Cincinnati and Louisville division. The offer was rejected and the case appealed. In the meantime the Belt company proceeded to put in the crossings and the Lake Erie and Western pulled them out until an injunction was secured. Attorney Cochran of Indianapolis promised to not further interfere with the Belt, and induced the Belt company to withdraw the injunction. The crossing is being put in again.

Cincinnati Tobacco Market.

Furnished by the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company:

Wednesday being Decoration Day and a National holiday caused the sales to be much larger on the other three days of the week, but probably caused less offerings than would have been placed under the market had there been no observance of this day.

The market started on Tuesday with considerable animation, but faded down some at the close of the day. But on Thursday, with very little difference, it was again active and prices were held up with slight fluctuations, and the market closed in the evening without any perceptible decline, and the largest portion of the offerings were accepted. The Bedman sold a field of new for Leslie Combs at 23 1/2c, being the cap sheaf of the new crop up to the present time. The offerings were quite large for Friday, but were composed of low grades and rejected while they brought about the usual prices, the market did not show the inclination of Thursday.

The better grades of the new crop are coming to the front and we can see quite an improvement in them, and in fact all grades are bringing more money, which is caused by an increased demand from our manufacturers. The prices have been some higher for the best grades of old stock than for the new, but the new is more in demand on the market. The fancy goods, where they are sweet and in good condition, are only 2c to 3c higher than one month ago, while the medium and low grades remain very firm at last week's prices. The buyers have bid more liberally, and at times there is very speculative competition, which always results in favor of the seller. We hope to have a very active market next week.

The reports from the country are very favorable for getting a good crop set, and we think holders of old tobacco should be disposing of it at every opportunity, and not carry it too far into the sweating season.
